

TAMMANY'S MOVING DAY.

STRONG ELECTED.

Returns Show He Is Carrying the City Before Him.

LEAVING MORTON BEHIND.

145 Districts Out of 1,141 Gave Him a Plurality of 3,000.

CHEERING NEWS FOR ARTIS.

They Watched Their Candidate's Bulletins and Cheered the News.

From the very outset as early as 5 P. M. the figures from the election districts in this city gave joy to the enemies of Tammany Hall and brought corresponding disappointment to the supporters of Hugh J. Grant.

Grover is that Encke's comet? Carlie—No, that is the New York World's flash light.

The count showed that Strong was running far ahead of his ticket.

Five election districts gave him 500 votes; Grant, 218, and McCallum, 9. This was a plurality of 186 for Strong and 161 ahead of Morton's vote for the same number of districts.

The next bulletin received, however, somewhat restored the hopes of Grant's supporters. It showed that in ten election districts, Grant received 603 votes, Strong 577 and McCallum 6. This was a plurality of 146 for Grant.

Again were the hopes of the Strong adherents raised when just before 6 o'clock returns from 15 election districts were received out of the 141.

The figures showed that Grant had 1,168 votes; Strong, 1,390, and McCallum, 9. This was a plurality of 197 for the Republican candidate.

When returns from twenty election districts were received the figures were greeted with cheers at the various anti-Tammany headquarters. They showed that Strong had a plurality of 340, having polled 1,518 votes to Grant's 1,476.

Their delight was further increased by the bulletin at 8 P. M., which showed a plurality of 499 for Strong in twenty-five election districts. The figures were Grant, 1,763; Strong, 2,262; McCallum, 11. A still further increase in plurality for Strong was shown when returns from fifty election districts were received. The figures gave Grant 3,650, and Strong 4,676, a plurality of 926 for the reform candidate.

Then following in rapid succession came the bulletins as follows:
6:17 P. M.—Eighty election districts give Grant 5,607; Strong, 6,832, a plurality for Strong of 44.
6:27 P. M.—One hundred and forty-five districts give Grant 10,127; Strong, 12,390, a plurality of 2,263 for Strong.
6:30 P. M.—One hundred and ninety-five districts give Grant 15,485; Strong, 18,160, a plurality of 2,675 for Strong.

GLOOM AT THE WIGWAM.

The Defeat of the Tammany Ticket Reluctantly Admitted.

For the first time in many years there was an absence of anything like enthusiasm in Tammany Hall to-night. At every previous election the large hall has been decorated with garlands and bunting for all who cared to sit upon them; a band generally discoursed music; but to-night all these things are forgotten.

Tammanyite Who Prayed for Rain.

"And next day it snowed."

No band of leaders gathered around the so-called charmed circle. No orators of any consequence were on hand to keep up the drooping spirits of the weary. Already have they fled to other places, where they can commune with themselves in the event—as now seems certain—of the Tammany ticket being defeated.

After five minutes conversation they left the Wigwam, and repaired to their respective district headquarters, all save Grant, Gilroy, and the two Martins, who took a car down to Police Headquarters. Afterward the few who were left at the Wigwam were joined by ex-Street-Cleaning Commissioner Brennan, Zhadueus Moriarty, Police Justice Ryan and a few others.

The rank and file of Tammany began to falter at 4:30 o'clock. Every one seemed to wear a long face, and the forebodings of defeat were everywhere apparent. Even the "tickle" which the crowd relied upon to furnish some kind of diversion, was silent.

At 6:30 o'clock Police Justice Ryan, who was receiving the returns, admitted that the entire Tammany ticket had been beaten by members of the Tammany organization who called loudly for some of the leaders to address them, but no one appeared.

"THE PULL THAT ONCE," ETC.

The "pull" that once from Tammany Hall its bold defiance hurled
Is now no good at all, at all.
As you see by the "Evening World."
So the hopes of Hughie Grant.
So Croker's reign is o'er;
The boulders now must hunt a haunt
Upon some other shore.

MR. MORTON CLIMBS A HILL.

No more to men who are higher up
The fishes of sin will go.
The tiger now pulls the pup.
It's tail hangs very low.
Reform of late very seldom wakes,
But when it tears the gung,
And humps itself—then something breaks,
And it gets there good and strong!

Not Like Leander.

(From the Placenta Blaster.)
He—I had a queer dream about you last night, Miss Louise. I was about to give you a kiss, when suddenly we were separated by a river that gradually grew as big as the Rhine.

She—And was there no bridge, no boat?

Extremes Meet.

From Illustration Chronicle.
"See, there comes Hummel. I don't want to meet the man. Only last week I asked him to lend me 100 marks."
He might have given you the money. He is rich enough.
"Wasn't—the fact is, he did."

ASSAULTED BY A MOB.

Republican Voter Henry Kappers Beaten by a Tammany Gang.

Justice Grady Promptly Dismisses His Complaint in Court.

Henry Kappers, a Republican voter, of 143 Orchard street, was brutally beaten by a Tammany mob in front of the polls of the Seventeenth Election District of the Third Assembly District this afternoon. He came to the Essex Market Police Court with a black eye and blood flowing from several cuts on his face. His mouth, too, was severely bruised.

STRONG & COFF FUR.

When Kappers was arraigned before Justice Grady, he told the latter that he had been assaulted, and that O'Connor, with a gang at his heels, had pummed him because he was a Republican.

"Make your complaint to the clerk," commanded the Justice.

Kappers stepped down before the clerk. Lawyer Levy following to see what was done.

Senator Sullivan stood in the back ground, but inside the rail with the court officers.

A young headless fellow, evidently a henchman of Tim, rushed up to the Senator and declared that he could not get in behind the judge's bench.

"The—you can't," cried Sullivan, and he made a long stride towards the place where Kappers was making his complaint.

But lawyer Levy intercepted Sullivan and cried aloud in court.

"He won't say he struck O'Connor, Tim, and Justice Grady won't accept a complaint."

"So you won't swear that O'Connor struck you?" cried Sullivan, and he pointed to the clerk.

"I had no more than got there and he was on me," cried Sullivan, and he pointed to the clerk.

"I denounce the policeman," said Kappers, it made no difference, and I then went to the Elbridge street station and reported the case. Policeman Smith was sent back to relieve the policeman at the polls and I went with him.

GUARD FOR REV. SAM SMALL.

But It Wasn't Needed When He Spoke 11 Runoake, Va.

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 6.—Rev. Sam. Small closed the campaign in Runoake last night. He spoke here about three weeks ago, and some of his allusions displeased a large number of people who heard him. His friends, evidently fearing that he would not meet with a friendly reception, had five policemen at the depot to receive him.

The hall in which he spoke was also out, owing to the amount of time it took to dispose of ballots. It is estimated that hundreds of votes were lost in this way.

Police Commissioner Welles, who had made a tour of the city late this afternoon, said that in some of the districts in East New York from fifty to 100 voters were left standing in line when the polls closed. In one district eighty-five persons were barred out.

The voters who were in the booths folding their ballots when the polls closed were allowed to cast their ballots, but those outside in line were turned away.

GEN. HARRISON VOTES.

It Didn't Take Him Long to Select His Ticket.

(By Associated Press.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—Ex-President Benjamin Harrison sauntered leisurely down to his voting precinct in the Second Ward this forenoon and took his place in the chute.

Pending his approach to the ballot-box he chatted with those around him. From his short stay in the stall the inference is drawn that he did little or no scratching.

INCOMPETENT INSPECTORS.

Police Compelled to Remove Two Poll Officials Who Delayed Voters.

J. S. McDonald, a Democratic Inspector, of the Fourth Election District, of the Twenty-third Assembly District, were removed by police order for incompetency.

The complainants were H. R. Beckman, the State Democracy candidate for Judge of the Superior Court, and Mr. Larocque, of the Committee of Seventy.

It is said that up to 1 o'clock this afternoon only about 100 votes were cast out of a total registration of 565 in the district. At the time the complaint was made there were some 200 people in line, many of whom had been waiting for hours.

Police Inspector McAvoy was sent to make an investigation. He saw at once that the men were incompetent and removed them.

Mr. Beckman declared that he expected a large vote there because the Republicans are greatly in the majority. He intimated that the men removed were not exerting themselves as they should have done, and that it was a deliberate attempt to deprive several hundred of his friends from voting.

The inspectors were replaced by Fred Traver, Republican, and John Heagan, Democrat, after which the voting progressed rapidly without trouble.

BARRED OUT BY TIME.

Hundreds of Men Lost Their Votes in Brooklyn.

85 in One District Were in Line When Polls Closed.

Some Excitement Among Voters Who Could Not Cast Ballots.

At the closing of the polls in Brooklyn there was more or less excitement among late voters, who were barred

MAY DELAY ELECTION NEWS.

New England Wires All Down—Track Results Unobtainable.

Almost complete prostration of the telegraphic and telephone service exists in New England this morning as the result of last night's furious storm, which swept over that section of the country. It being particularly heavy along the coast.

Up to 11 A. M. the Postal Company had no wires to Boston, Springfield or Providence, and the Western Union was in a similar plight, with respect to Boston, but has a slow wire to Springfield and one wire to New Haven. The Long-Distance Telephone Company was able to get only as far as Bridgeport, Conn.

At midnight word was received from New Haven that the wind was blowing 22 miles an hour. No reports of disasters by land or sea have been received. Large forces of linemen from the various companies are hard at work, and it is hoped and expected that communication will be restored this afternoon.

This afternoon there was neither a telephone nor telegraph wire between this city and Providence, and all efforts to obtain news from the New York and Narragansett Park were futile. Absolutely no communication was possible except by train.

One hundred and ten election districts—Hill, 9,985; Morton, 9,820; Wheeler, 4,601. One Hundred and Twenty Election Districts—Hill, 10,713; Morton, 10,607; Wheeler, 5,807.

MORTON IS ELECTED.

The Result in New York City A'013 Makes That Outcome Certain.

HILL'S VOTE BELOW MAYNARD.

And 935 Election Districts in the Metropolis Show Morton Ahead.

DISMAY OF HILL FOLLOWERS.

The Overwhelming Nature of the Republican Victory a Complete Surprise.

Levi P. Morton is elected Governor of the State of New York.

How overwhelming is the vote by which he secures his triumph is indicated in the fact that New York City returns alone make it certain, regardless of what the State may do, outside of New York and Kings Counties.

Out of 1,141 election districts in the city, 220 give Hill 21,773 and Morton 21,560. The same number of districts last year gave Maynard 23,084 and Bartlett 15,363.

This result was the surprise and dismay of the Hill followers.

The falling off from Maynard's vote was more than enough to beat the Democratic standard-bearer of this year.

Later—35 election districts in the city gave Hill 30,772 and Morton 30,773. 53—Twenty election districts give Hill 30,773 and Morton 30,773. 53—Twenty election districts give Hill 30,773 and Morton 30,773.

Seventy election districts out of 141 give Hill 6,982; Morton 6,177; Wheeler 583.
